Realize Your Castles in the Air.

In the course of a splendid article entitled "Actualizing One's Ideals" in the January Woman's Home Companion Ralph Waldo Trine writes as follows:

"We use the poetic expression, 'castles in Spain;' we speak likewise of building 'castles in the air;' we make light sometimes of the one given to building castles in the air, but castles in the air are always necessary, and they invariably precede castles on the ground—castles in which to live. The trouble many times with the one who is given to building castles in the air is that he hasn't sustaining force, yes, mental force if you please, and doesn't go forward and by daily work and application externalize in material form the castles he thus builds in the air."

MEXICAN FEDERALS ON THE RUN

Presidio, Tex., Dec. 28.—(Via United States Army Telephone to Marfa)—The Federal Army, which went out from the vicinity of Ojinaga last Sunday morning with the avowed intention of capturing Juarez and of devastating the intervening country, is streaming back to Ojinaga tonight, pursued by the Carrancistas under Gen. Toribio Ortega. Immediately upon the arrival of the federal troops every available man was put at work on strengthening the already strong fortifications of the town, digging new trenches and rifle pits and otherwise preparing to resist the Carrancistas, who are said to be camped tonight east of La Mula Pass.

A battle was fought late Saturday afternoon between the advance guard of Ortega's army and about 1,000 federals under Gen. Jose Ynez Salazar at a point about twenty-eight miles north west of Ojinaga. The federals were ambushed and at the first fire became panic stricken, and despite all efforts of their officers began a disorderly retreat to their base. They were pursued until well into the night by the Carrancistas, who kept up a running fight. The federals report that they had but eleven men killed and about twenty wounded all of whom were brought into Ojinaga today.

Refugees say that the federal forces are practically surrounded, as with Ortega on the north and west with an army said to number 3,000 men and Jesus Carranza to the south and east with 2,000 others from the state of Coahuila, every pass through which the federals might make their way is so guarded that all hope of egress has been abandoned. Ojinaga will be their last stand.

Gen. Salazar and Pascual Orozco announced today that the fight, which it is expected, will take place within the next forty-eight hours, will be to the death, as they will neither ask nor give quarter. Gen. Ortega, the Carrancista commander, is said to have ten field pieces, several mountain howitzers, which are being carried on pack saddles, and twenty machine guns with him. The federal artillery, which was taken when the advance on Juarez was made last Sunday morning, has not yet been returned to Ojinaga, and there is a probability it may have been captured.

Federals arriving in Ojinaga tonight say that La Mula Pass has been occupied by 800 Carrancistas and that in a skirmish this morning the federals were driven back. Only two were reported killed on the federal side.

The Carrancista loss is said by federals to have been heavy in both killed and wounded.

While Ojinaga is considered as being almost impregnable from infantry attack it is feared that Gen. Ortega, instead of trying to take it by assault, will bombard it with his artillery, and if he does the loss of life will be appalling.

Several men were shot this morning who had been detected trying to get through the line to the United States.

To Discuss Collegiate Athletics.

New York, Dec. 29.—Page after page of the register at the Hotel Astor filled today with the names of faculty representatives of leading colleges and schools throughout the land. They have come to attend the eighth annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the governing body in the world of college sports, which will begin tomorrow morning and continue in session through the day.

The meeting promises to be of more than ordinary interest. Though no problem of paramount importance is awaiting solution at the hands of the association this year, there will be papers and discussions covering the whole field of intercollegiate sport. The report of the committee appointed to investigate the subject of summer baseball is awaited with much interest. The sessions will be presided over by Dean Briggs of Harvard, who is president of the association.

$200,000 SANTA'S GIFT TO WIDOW

Okmulgee, Okla., Dec. 28.—An eighty acre farm in Okmulgee county with five producing oil wells and others being drilled was the best Christmas gift that Mrs. Lottie Hammock, a widow and seven little children found in her Christmas stocking. E. W. Kimbley known to the oil fraternity as "Dry Hole" Kimbley, was the Santa Claus who brought Mrs. Hammock this Christmas present which is valued now at $200,000 and is constantly increasing in value.

Mrs. Hammock's husband died some time ago leaving her an eighty acre farm heavily mortgaged. The buildings on the farm are of the poorest and the land was not good farming land. The widow struggled with the mortgage for a time but three months ago the little farm was advertised for sale under a mortgage foreclosure.

Mr. Kimbley heard of the woman's plight and talked with several other wealthy oil men. They decided to drill a test well on the land in hopes that they might strike oil and lift the family out of poverty. An injunction against the foreclosure sale was secured and the oil men who had interested themselves in the case assumed the mortgage indebtedness and put up the money to drill a test well. The test resulted in the discovery of the now famous Booch sand pool northeast of Morris and made a fortune, not only for the widow but for many other people who have oil interests in that district.

There are now five producing wells on the little farm and others are being drilled. The mortgage on the farm was paid weeks ago and when the deeds were given Mrs. Hammock Christmas eve she was also given a bank book with the nice little fortune of $200,000 to her credit.

Mr. Kimbley is one of the oil men of Oklahoma who has known what it meant to rise to riches after a long siege of hard luck. He drilled well after well, took lease after lease and for years failed to get a producing well. His friends in the oil fraternity finally dubbed him "Dry Hole" Kimbley and considered him a hoodoo. But "Dry Hole" Kimbley set his teeth and fought fate. And some time ago he brought in a test well that was one of the largest in the Morris field. From that time his luck changed and he began piling up money in a phenomenal manner. He is almost a millionaire now and everything that he touches seems to turn to gold. But with his sudden rise to wealth he has not forgotten to give a helping hand to the needy.

Origin of "Indian" Summer

When the Pilgrim Fathers landed in New England, they knew little of the climatic conditions there. October arrived and with it the first snow surges. Frost nipped the woods and the chilly atmosphere foretold the approach of the winter. Then friendly Indians pointed to the sky and the west and told the Fathers that "another summer" would come before winter; and they were right. In the last days of October it grew warm again and the world to them seemed wrapped in the sleepy warmth of a slanting sunshine. It was then that the worthy Bradford, Endicott and Winthrop nodded to each other and said: "Behold, this is the Indians' summer." And the expression has survived to this day.

OIL STRIKE AT CALVIN

REPORTED THAT GOOD WELL HAS BEEN BROUGHT IN AT 1100 FEET

While coming to Ada this morning W. E. McGowan, general manager of the River Bed Oil Co., learned from Henry Cabell, another oil operator, that Sunday afternoon a good well was brought in seven and one-half miles southeast of Calvin at a depth of 1100 feet. Although it has not been tested out, enough has been found to make it certain that the well is a good one. It is the first of the test wells to be put down in that vicinity and a general movement will doubtless be started in that direction. The well was drilled by a Pennsylvania company. It is fifteen miles east of Allen, a fact which might indicate that the field lies in that direction, although of course it cannot be known for certain until more wells are put down.

C. W. RICHARDS ANNOUNCES

SUPERINTENDENT OF ARDMORE SCHOOLS WILL MAKE RACE FOR STATE SUPERINTENDENT.

From the Oklahoman.

C. W. Richards, superintendent of the city schools of Ardmore, while in Oklahoma City Sunday enroute to the State Teachers' convention, which begins at Tulsa Monday, announced that he would seek the democratic nomination for state superintendent of public instruction to succeed R. H. Wilson.

"Oklahoma, being a new state, needs a constructive administration of her educational affairs," said Mr. Richards, "and if nominated and elected that will be my policy. There has been a great deal said in the press of the state about urgent solicitation of many of my personal friends and friends of education in various parts of the state I have consented to become a candidate. I will make my formal announcement later on."

In a recent speech before the Teachers' association of Ada, Mr. Richards declared himself in favor of federal aid for public schools and outlined his theory and ideas as to how it should be done. He expects to make this one of the strongest features of the platform on which he will ask election.

Mr. Richards is a Kentuckian, and has been engaged in school work of different kinds for the past eighteen years. He was at one time a member of the board of regents of the Kentucky state normal at Bowling Green, Kentucky, and now is one of the vice presidents of the National Federation of Teachers' associations.

There are now three candidates for the democratic nomination for state superintendent, R. H. Wilson, former president W. E. Gill of the Tablequah normal, and Mr. Richards.

Essay on Men.

Men are what women marry. They have two feet, two hands and sometimes, two wives; but never more than one collar button or one idea at a time.

Like Turkish cigarettes, men are all made of the same material; the only difference being that some are a little better disguised than others.

Generally speaking, they may be divided into three classes; husbands, bachelors and widowers. Bachelors are a commodity; husbands a necessity, and widowers a luxury—especially when making love.

Bachelors come in two varieties—eligible and ineligible. An eligible bachelor is a body of vanity completely surrounded by women; an ineligible bachelor is a mass of obstinacy entirely surrounded by suspicion.

Husbands are of three varieties;

During a prolonged study of the lives of various men, both great and small, I came upon this thought: In the web of the world the one may well be regarded as the warp the other as the woof. It is little men, after all, who give breath to the web, and the great men firmness and solidity. Perhaps, also, the addition of some sort of pattern. But the scissors of Fates determine its length and to that all the rest must join in submitting itself.—Goethe (German Classics, Vol. II.)

Earthquakes Form Hole in Bottom of Sea.

A hole nearly a mile deep was formed in the bottom of the sea off the coast of Panama by the recent Central American earthquake, according to apparently authentic reports. As a result of these earthquakes a submarine cable was broken, and a cable ship was sent out to make repairs. The ends of the cable were found to be buried under enormous masses of material, and where the government charts published in 1904 showed a depth of 1,000 feet, soundings made from the cable ship found a depth of 5,000 feet. This remarkable depression is located off Los Santos province about 15 miles from the mainland, and

Y. M. C. A. FOR STATE UNIVERSITY

A movement at the University of Oklahoma, recently undertaken, has as its object the securing of funds for the purchase of a site for a Y. M. C. A. building. The University, being an institution supported by the state, can make no official provision for the moral and spiritual care of its students. It is, however, leaning its influence in favor of the efforts of private individuals to supply this lack of a building for the activities of the Y. M. C. A.

A letter recently sent out from the University to about 750 citizens of the state makes an appeal for individual contributions of $10.00 for this purpose. Since this letter reaches only a small proportion of those who may be willing to contribute, the results will necessarily be limited. We believe that the people of the state wish to see their children who go to the State University properly cared for to their moral welfare. In no better way can they assure themselves that this care will be taken than by sending to the University a contribution of $10.00, even though they may not have been among those to whom the individual letters were sent.

THE STATE SUPERINTENDENCY.

The candidacy of Prof. C. W. Richards of Ardmore for the office of state superintendent will have the hearty support of the News. We have no fight to make on Supt. Wilson and will not throw any brickbats at him during the coming campaign, but at the same time we shall be for Mr. Richards.

Twelve years ago Mr. Richards and the editor of this paper met while attending Peabody college at Nashville Tennessee and a friendship sprang up which has grown warmer and more intimate with the passing of years. He was then a close student and ranked with the best of the 600 in the literary department of the college. He has since devoted his life to the work of teaching and his success has been gratifying and his rise has been rapid. He has made a close study of executive work and the high point of efficiency to which he has raised the city schools of Ardmore testifies to his ability in that line. Both by experience and from the standpoint of scholarship he is one of the best qualified men in the state and his candidacy will be given a hearty response.

Another strong point in his favor is the fact that he has never taken part in any of the factional fights that have kept the educational interests of the state in a turmoil and can take hold of the office unhampered by any entangling alliances and with a record that can not be questioned even by the most critical.

HORSE THAT KILLED HIMSELF

Animal Got Blue, Waded into River, Lay Down and Died, Says Farmer.

Montclair, N. J.—Frederick J. Minor of 106 Midland avenue, who returned from a canoeing trip on the Passaic, relates what he believes is a sure enough case of suicide by a horse.

Near the town of Beaufort, Mr. Minor saw a farmer draw a dead horse from the river, where it is only two feet deep. He asked the farmer what had caused the horse's death.

"Suicide, sir," said the farmer. "That horse simply walked into the river and drowned himself. He was ambling around this morning as spry as a colt, and there seemed to be nothing wrong with him. Later, however, he seemed to be afflicted with the blues and moped about. Then I saw him go down to the river and look all around. He lay down in the water, and when I got there, I'll be hanged if he hadn't drowned himself. I tagged and hauled, but when I got him out he was dead."

Mr. Minor asserts that it was impossible for the horse to drown unless he wanted to, for the river at the point in question is too shallow.

FALL PUTS SPINE IN PLACE

Readjusts Dislocation From Which Woman Suffered for More Than Thirty Years.

Bridgeville, Del.—After thirty years of suffering with a dislocated spine, during which time she spent many thousand dollars in this country and in Europe in efforts to obtain relief, Mrs. Charles Helm of Ellendale, met with an accident at her home here a few days ago which forced the spine into place, and her complete recovery is anticipated.

When a girl Mrs. Helmsmet with an accident which slipped the spine out of place, inflicting an injury pronounced incurable by many noted specialists in this country and abroad. She exhausted a fortune in her efforts to find relief, only recently spending $15,000 in sanatoriums in Germany and France.

Mrs. Helm astonished her friends the other night by presiding over a meeting of the Ladies' Social club. Her hand was bandaged because of lacerations received by the fall down stairs which she claims jarred the spine into place. Physicians are mystified, but believe the member has been permanently restored to its proper place.

CALLS ON GIRL VIA THE ROOF

Young Gotham Sufferer Who Drops in at 3 A. M. Is Arrested as Burglar.

New York.—Fred Arnitz, who boards at the Young Men's Hebrew association in East Ninety-seventh street, has been keeping company with Miss Pauline Hopper, a maid at 149 East Ninety-second street, for some time. About three o'clock in the morning he went to the roof of a house two floors east, lowered himself to the next roof with a rope, then descended through the scuttles of the house where his sweetheart resided.

His journey had aroused tenants and soon police reserves were on hand. In the basement of the house in which Miss Hopper lives, Arnitz was found, sitting on a washbasin. He was taken to a police station, charged with burglary, after Miss Hopper had identified him. She said she did not care for any three o'clock calls.

SAVED BY A BIG BULL MOOSE

Thrilling Escape Made by Minnesota Youth Who Grabbed Horns of Unwilling Rescuer.

International Falls, Minn.—A thrilling escape from drowning in Rainy river near Fort Francis, Ont., by catching hold of the antlers of a big bull moose, was the experience of Clyde W. Buell of Minneapolis, a junior academic student of the State university. Buell was out on a raft of logs which, after striking a jam, disintegrated, and clinging to a piece of timber, Buell was carried toward the rapids. He had given up hope when he saw the moose with its head and antlers above water, swimming from the rapids. Buell let loose of his logs and grabbed the moose, shifted himself to the animal's back and rode it to shallow water.

The moose fought hard at first, but soon gave up and swam ashore.

BULL RAMS HIM OVER FENCE

Man in Dire Peril Draws Family, Who Share His Danger Until Help Arrives.

Doylestown, Pa.—While he was driving cattle on a highway in Haycock township, a ferocious bull in a field jumped a fence and attacked William H. Roudenbush, of Applebachville, tossing him in the air like a football. Mr. Roudenbush was helpless; but his life was saved when the bull rammed him through a fence.

Mr. Roudenbush's son, Edward, appeared, but shared about the same fate as his father. Then Roudenbush's wife and daughter came to the rescue with pitchforks, but by that time the son had hold of a ring in the bull's nose, which enabled him to hold the beast until help arrived. Mr. Roudenbush was carried home, wounded in many places on his body and head.

OPEN PEACE PALACE

Dedicate at Hague Building for Great Arbitration Court.

Many Nations Donate Materials for Structure, Which Cost $1,500,000, and Was Donated by Carnegie.—Four Men Are Honored.

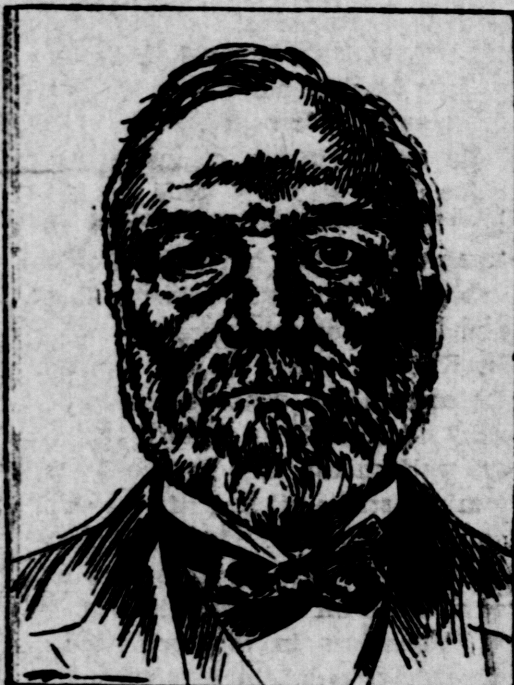

The Hague, Holland.—The palace of peace was dedicated with impressive ceremonies here. It is the gift of Andrew Carnegie, who in 1903 placed at the disposal of the Dutch government the sum of $1,500,000 for the purpose, as expressed in his offer, "of erecting and maintaining at The Hague a court-house and library for the permanent court of arbitration established by the treaty of July 29, 1899."

To provide for a site for this, the first structure ever erected for such a purpose, the Dutch government appropriated $275,000. The site is in a section of wooded and hilly park stretching from The Hague to Scheveningen. The corner stone was laid July 30, 1907.

A world-wide competition for plans and designs for the peace palace was established, and the first prize was awarded to M. Cordonniere, a Brussels architect. The building as completed, however, does not represent the original plan, the Carnegie committee having reserved the right to modify all designs. With M. Cordonniere's plans for a foundation, Mr. Van de Steur was appointed to carry out the modified design and remained in direct control of this work until the completion of the building.

The palace of peace as completed does not represent any precise style of architecture, but it is regarded by architects as one of the most impressive of modern buildings to be seen in Europe. Rectangular in shape, it forms roughly a square 85 yards by 86 yards, and incloses a beautiful formal garden. On three sides the building constitutes the courthouse, and on the fourth or west side are the quarters of the library. The facade of the second floor is adorned with statues, the figures representing science, agriculture, art, navigation, commerce, industry, conscience, eloquence, will, force, study, authority, humanity, constancy and wisdom.

All the main windows of the great court are guarded by statues of justice and law, and over the central gateway

Andrew Carnegie.

He above the main entrance stands a figure of peace, hands resting on the hilt of a sheathed sword, around which are swathed scrolls. Just below, over the corridor, stand two lions.

All the statuary, however, is not confined to the symbolic. Four men have been honored by busts. These are Hugo Grotius, who has been called the pioneer of international law; King Edward VII, Sir Randall Crummen and William T. Staud, the English writer and peace leader who perished on the Titanic. The bust of Crummen was the gift of the International Arbitration League.

Within, all that modern art and skill could do to symbolize the purpose of the palace has been devoted to the decoration. The grand marble staircase, which forms the main entrance, is illuminated from a group of stained glass windows, showing peace shedding rays of light on art and science, land and sea, commerce and industry; while on the left and right are other stained glass windows depicting the ancient horror war, and above them are companion panels of terror and death.

The great court is an imposing hall, about 74 feet long by about 40 in width, and rising to the full height of the palace. It will accommodate about 300 persons. At the rear, facing the bench or presiding officer's stand, is an enormous arched stained glass window. To one side of it is a draped figure of justice bearing a sword, and to the other truth surveying her nakedness in a mirror. Over the throne is a huge oil painting, a gift of France. To the left of the great hall are the arched galleries for the use of the public. The walls are paneled with oak, and the ceiling is of embossed oak in wonderful designs.

DENISON MAN KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Denison, Dec. 28.—Richard R. Ashley, aged 17, proprietor of a barber shop at 605 South Armstrong avenue, was instantly killed and his four companions severely injured at noon today when an automobile in which they were riding skidded and turned turtle two miles east of the city.

The car was driven by C. R. Morrison, who conducts a grocery store at 700 South Armstrong avenue. Those injured were G. R. Morrison, Tom Adams, C. Wilson and R. J. Thomas of Gunter, Texas. Morrison, it is believed, is internally injured besides having his left shoulder dislocated and numerous cuts and bruises about the face and body. Those from Gunter were visiting young Ashley and with Morrison were taking a ride over the roads about the city before departing for their homes.

The car was traveling at a moderate rate of speed when it is said, the left hind wheel struck a bad place in the road and gave away. The car skidded, turned over and reversed itself. Ashley was riding in the front seat with Morrison and was thrown to the ground striking on his neck. His neck was broken.

Walter Dunn who followed closely behind the wrecked car, picked up the injured and brought them to the city for treatment. The dead body was brought to the city in the St. Edwards ambulance. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon from the family home, 731 West Day street.

Mrs. Betty Lyler Wilson
(of Nashville, Tenn.)

Mrs. Wilson of Nashville, Tenn., is famed the world over for her wonderfully delicious cakes. They are shipped to all parts of the Globe for special affairs where the best of cakes are demanded.

This year, as in former years, Mrs. Wilson enjoys the distinction of making the President's Christmas Cake, using Calumet Baking Powder.

Mrs. Wilson's Baking Motto is: "To have complete success with no failures, care should be used in selection of Baking Powder."

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

Some little time ago I made a careful study and investigation of the baking powder subject and I feel fully repaid. I am firmly convinced from the results I have received that there is no baking powder to equal Calumet for wholesomeness and economy, and I also recommend Calumet Baking Powder for its never failing results.

FAIR WEATHER

FOR THIS WEEK

Washington, Dec. 28.—Generally fair weather is predicted for the next few days in parts of the country east of the Rocky Mountains and over the Southern plateau region. Rains are expected in the Southeastern states and probably snows in the Middle Atlantic and New England states, upper Ohio Valley and lower Lake region. The weekly bulletin of the Weather Bureau issued tonight says:

"A disturbance of moderate intensity central Sunday morning over Louisiana, will advance northeastward and cause rains Monday in the Southeastern states and cloudy weather and probably snows Monday and Tuesday in the Middle Atlantic and New England states, the upper Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region. With this exception the weather will be fair during the next several days in practically all parts of the country east of the Rocky Mountains and over the Southern plateau region.

"The next disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear on the North Pacific Coast Monday or Tuesday, attended by high winds and rains and cross the great central valleys about Thursday and the Eastern states Friday. This disturbance will cause local snows in the northern states. Another disturbance will reach the North Pacific coast about Thursday and prevail over the Middle West near the end of the week. This disturbance will be attended by general rains and snows and be followed by decidedly colder weather."

JUDGE BOLEN PRESENTED WITH DIAMOND PIN

The $125 diamond pin now being worn by J. W. Bolen is not a sign that he is aspiring to become a member of the plutocracy along with Rockefeller and Morgan, but it is a testimonial presented him Saturday by his Ada friends as a token of their appreciation of his efforts in securing from the corporation commission an order for a reduction of phone rates in Ada. It was purchased from A. D. Coon, who put the price down to cost and Saturday afternoon a number of the judge's friends called on him and W. D. Hays in a neat speech presented the sparkler, the price of which was made up in small donations from a large number of citizens. It is a present of which he has a right to feel proud.

ARDMORE PEOPLE MUCH

INTERESTED IN OIL

The News reporter was a visitor at Ardmore Sunday and found the citizens of that city much alive to the oil strikes being made near Ardmore and other places. The recent strikes in the Healdton field and at Allen have created some little excitement, and oil seems to be the chief topic of conversation just now. Ardmore seems to be livelier than for several years past and with the coming of good weather so that more machinery may be moved to the oil field the work will be pushed with a vigor that may make millions of some of those men yet.

FRISCO PREPARES FOR STRIKE OF OPERATORS

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 29.—In anticipation of the strike of 1,100 telegraphers employed on its lines, which, in all probability, will be called tomorrow, the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad tonight laid off indefinitely 400 telegraphers and began to transform its telegraph lines into a telephone system for railroad communication. This action laid bare the company's plans for resisting the strike to the amazement of the telegraphers. Removal of all telegraph instruments from the company's offices began today and it is expected to be completed before the strike can be decided.

Tomorrow telephone operators will replace the telegraphers. The threatened strike will be forestalled by what practically amounts to a lockout. According to Ed Levy, general manager of the road, every five miles of the Frisco's wires will be guarded by a man day and night. At all points where it is necessary to give orders to trains, he said, a Deputy United States Marshal will be on guard to protect the telephone operator.

No strikebreakers will be hired in the event of the strike. Mr. Levy said, Telephone operators will be recruited from the main offices of the company. The only telegraph instruments left on the lines will be one at each of the twenty-four division points and one at headquarters for the use of officials in transmitting messages.

INDIANS WHO WERE GENERALS

(By E. A. MacMillan)

Recently there appeared in the public press the statement that Stand Watie and Tecumseh were the only two Indians who ever reached the rank of Brigadier General. No one conversant with the facts connected with the lives of the two distinguished men named would detract one iota from the honors which history accords them. Both were preeminently great and the fact that the Cherokee people have erected a fitting monument at Tahlequah to perpetuate the name and fame of Stand Watie shows the high regard in which he was held by his people.

Ely S. Parker, a Seneca chief whose father had been chief of his tribe before him, a man of letters and renowned for his engineering knowledge was made Brigadier General of Volunteers by President Lincoln six days before the President's untimely death. Parker's civil career, extending over a period of twenty years, was equally as meritorious as his military. He was the true and loyal friend of Gen. U. S. Grant and when the final surrender was made at Appomattox, Parker was chosen to engross the articles of surrender between Lee and Grant and that famous document is in the archives of state at Washington.

Former Governor William L. Byrd of the Chickasaw nation states that he was present when orders were issued to have forwarded to President Davis of the Confederate States, for his approval the result of the election of Samuel Checotah as a Brigadier General. That Gen. Checotah was chosen, on account of meritorious service, can hardly be questioned, but whether the election was ever approved by President Davis is unknown.

Pushmataha, one of the triumvirate of the Choctaws, and perhaps one of the greatest Indians that ever lived, was often called "the Indian General." The title was given him by his friends after his distinguished service in the Creek-Seminole war. There is no record of the appointment having been formally made by the government and evidently the title represents merely the high esteem in which this commanding figure was held among those who knew him. Pushmataha, Peter P. Pitchlyan and Allen Wright will always live in the history of the Choctaw-Chickasaw people. Each were men of lofty and high ideals, each served his tribe as chief and rendered service of the very highest order. Each was endowed by nature with rare gifts and each used those gifts for the betterment of their people and mankind in general.

Sheriff Mitchell of Ada arrived Saturday and escorted his prisoner back to Pontotoc county, where he will be tried.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all of our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. (Adv.)

Nero Played a Bagpipe.

Although bagpipes are usually associated with Scotland, they are not peculiar to the Highlands. It is an ancient Greek and Roman instrument. On a piece of ancient Greek sculpture now in Rome a bagpiper is represented dressed like a Scotch Highlander. Nero is said to have played upon a bagpipe. Chaucer represents the miller as skilled in playing bagpipes.
